

Grammar – Speech Example

This is a shortened example. Your example should be approximately 20 lines of dialogue.

“What do you want for dinner?” Chloe questioned as she looked into the fridge.

“Whatever, I’m easy,” replied Brenton, looking up from his laptop, “What do you want?”.

“That’s why I asked you in the first place,” Chloe answered with frustration in her voice.

“Whatever you want is fine by me,” responded Brenton, now working hard on his laptop again.

“I could make pasta?” offered Chloe as she surveyed the contents of the pantry.

Brenton paused and thought for a moment, “didn’t we have pasta last night?”.

Chloe’s face turned red and she took a deep breath, mentally counting to 10, “Yes, we did but you’re not giving me many other options”, she said through gritted teeth.

“Whatever,” replied Brenton, clearly more focused on his laptop rather than his dinner.